

LE PARC

F/W 2026 COLLECTION

A Story of Color and Craft

Le Parc was born from a fascination with light, perception, and color. Its roots lie in the workshop of Sama Genís, artist and mother of our founder; a true playground of pigments, textures, and round color samples.

Those experiments in hue and form became the spark behind our temple tips: vibrant circles of color translated into eyewear. Each pair carries this playful heritage, where design meets craft in details that are simple, expressive, and unmistakably Le Parc.

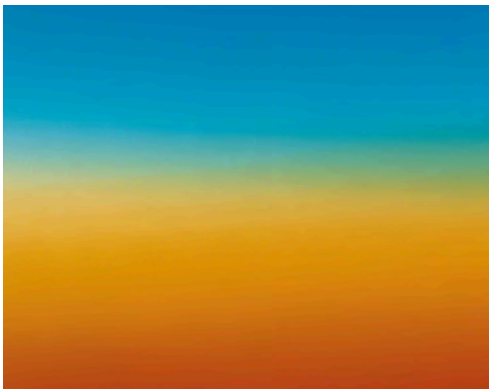

“La meva paleta” artwork by Sama Genís.

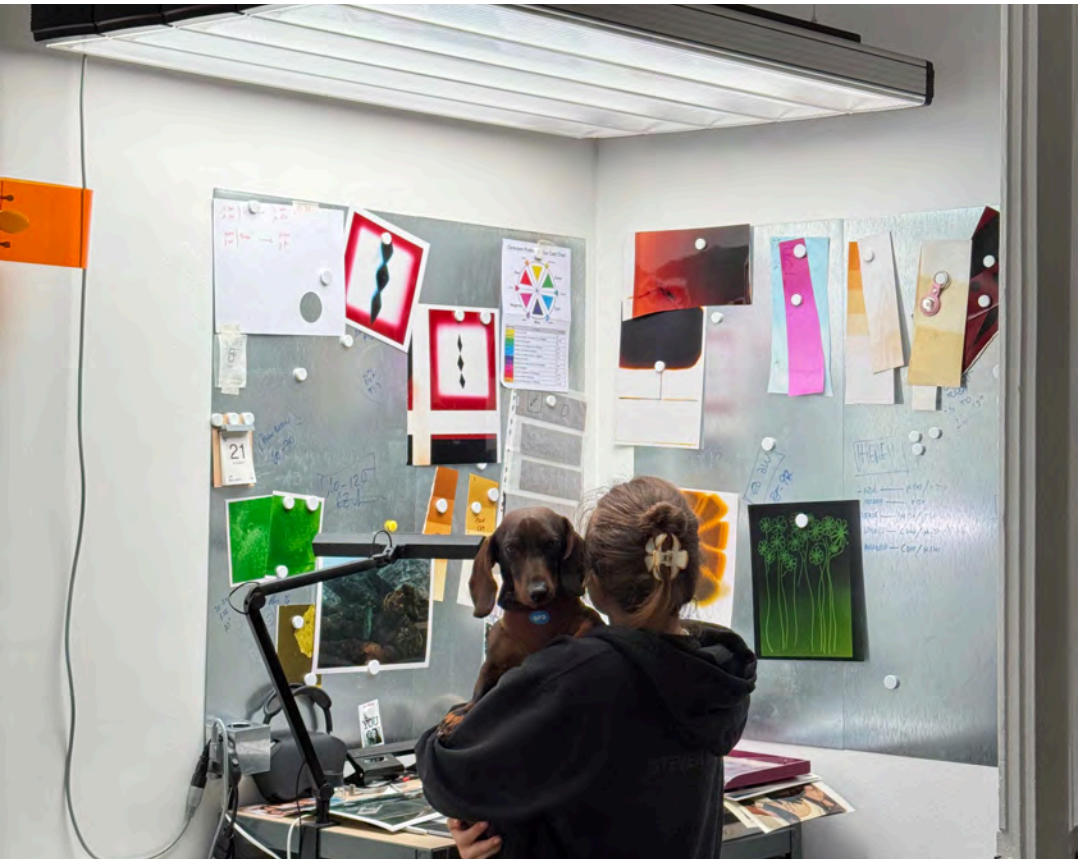

Sama's workshop

Le Park x María Darkroom

María Darkroom works with analogue photographic paper, but she does not take photographs in the conventional sense. Instead of using a camera to capture an image, she uses an enlarger, light and chemical processes to create work directly on photosensitive paper.

For FW26, Le Parc turns to an artist who works with colour the way others work with stone — built slowly, through resistance and repetition, never applied all at once. María Darkroom’s large-format analogue prints, made without a camera, become the visual foundation of this season. Not an illustration of her work, but a translation of the same values into a small, wearable collection: patience, material honesty, and the tension between control and chance.

Dandy Collection

The Dandy collection merges structural precision with uninhibited colour, reimagining masculine silhouettes through Le Parc's vibrant and highly creative lens.

It is in the subtleties that true character emerges. Hand-crafted laminations, precise bevels, and our signature rounded temple tips converge to create frames that feel substantial, refined, and unequivocally bold.
